

Create Conference Session

Guidelines

Info for your successful CIP submission

Please read and agree to the CIP Guidelines and CIP FAQs. Failure to follow our guidelines and instructions may result in your proposal being rejected.

☐ I hereby confirm that I have read and agree to abide by the CIP Guidelines and CIP FAQs. *

Content

Titel deiner Einreichung *

Eingabe ist begrenzt auf 180 Zeichen. Wir empfehlen kurze Titel bis etwa 70 Zeichen. Ein guter Titel ist präzise und erklärend: "Wie Chirurgen in Virtual Reality schwierige Operationen üben" ist besser als "Virtual Reality als Trainingswerkzeug"
Remaining: 180.

Summary *

This text will be publicly published if your submission is accepted and will be the most read item of your session. It serves to attract interest. Please submit 2-3 meaningful sentences that are short and to the point. The summary is limited to 300 characters.

Eingabe ist begrenzt auf 300 Zeichen, verbleibend: 300.

Detailed description of your entry *

B Z H L I M U

1000 Characters remaining

This text is mainly used by the programme team to review the submissions, but it will also be published. Indicate what your session is about, what you want to discuss, your perspective(s) on the topic, and how you plan to approach and implement the topic with the community. We recommend that you keep the description short, with a maximum of 1000 characters.

Comment / Additional information / Technical rider

If you have something important to tell the re:publica programme and production team, please enter it here (this part will not be made public). For example, are there any special requirements for stage access or setup?
It would be great if you could be relatively flexible from 27-29 May 2024 so that we can coordinate the content of all sessions. We have limited capacity to accommodate specific date and time requests. The sooner we know, the better.
